1. Since ancient days, Jews are known for their ethical insights—so much so that if Jews were
2. absent, much of what we think of as moral and ethical values would have been lost. This point, we believe, has
3. often been overlooked.
4. Perhaps one of the greatest ethical insights is a Midrash: "The seer, the scribe, is a seer..."
5. This is a reference to the biblical figure of Ezekiel, who is often seen as a seer or prophet.
6. So, perhaps one of the greatest ethical insights is this Midrash: "The seer, the scribe, is a seer..."
7. In our lives, we often struggle with the question of how to act in a world that is full of complexity and ease.
8. Perhaps one of the greatest ethical insights is this Midrash: "The seer, the scribe, is a seer..."
9. In our country, we often struggle with the question of how to act in a world that is full of complexity and ease.
10. Perhaps one of the greatest ethical insights is this Midrash: "The seer, the scribe, is a seer..."